Windows XP is the most recent version of the Windows operating system, and contains significant enhancements over previous versions. Windows XP is often compared to Windows Vista® in terms of user interface and computer hardware compatibility. Because Windows XP is an operating system which continues to be developed and maintained by Microsoft, there are both known and unknown vulnerabilities in it which are discovered. It is extremely important for computers running the operating system to have all of their components updated. *REQUIRED INFORMATION* Windows XP continues to be sold and used by consumers and businesses around the world. To ensure that you are using a secure operating system, please visit www.microsoft.com/security to learn how to stay secure with Microsoft products.
